Vascular Lab Receives Accreditation

Congratulations to the Fairfield Medical Center Vascular Lab, which was recently granted a three-year term of accreditation in Vascular Testing by the Intersocietal Accreditation Commission (IAC). This accreditation covers extracranial cerebrovascular testing, peripheral venous arterial and vascular testing. The IAC only grants this accreditation to facilities found to be providing quality patient care in compliance with national standards. IAC accreditation is a "seal of approval" that patients can rely on as an indication that the facility has been carefully critiqued on all operational aspects considered relevant by medical experts in the field of Vascular Testing. Vascular Testing procedures provide early detection of life-threatening heart disorders, stroke and other diseases. In 2012, FMC opened a dedicated vascular ultrasound laboratory for vascular exams such as peripheral venous and arterial exams, abdominal vascular exams, physiologic arterial exams and cerebrovascular exams. The next vascular screening will be held from 7-11:30 a.m. Thursday, March 13 in the vascular lab. Screenings are scheduled on a first-call, first-served basis. The cost is $75. Call (740) 689-6893 to schedule.

FMC Named 2014 Fit-Friendly Worksite

This past week-end we sprung ahead by turning our clocks forward. This is always an exciting time of the year as it means more daylight – and hopefully sunlight – will be coming our way.

employee wellness program led by our Health and Wellness Department and the engagement of our staff in those wellness activities.

You may not be aware that between our 2012 and 2103 employee health screenings, we made some significant accomplishments, including:

- 544 people losing a total of 3,830 pounds
- The percentage of high blood pressure decreasing by more than 4%
- 90.4% of participants met the blood pressure goal of $\leq 130/80$
- 81.2% of participants met the LDL cholesterol goal of ≤ 130

Congratulations and thank you for being good role models for our patients.

Sincerely,

Sky Gettys, Chief Financial Officer & Interim CEO

It also means that there is more opportunity to get outside and exercise.

As you likely know, I've been walking to and from the parking lot by the Accounting Building each day. While it wasn't always the most pleasant walk this winter, I am looking forward to making the journey this spring. It's not easy making a commitment to fitness even in the best of circumstances. It requires discipline, determination and a positive attitude.

For these reasons, I am very proud to inform you that Fairfield Medical Center has been named for the 5th year in a row a Platinum Fit-Friendly Worksite by the American Heart Association. This distinction is a reflection of the quality of our

FMC Sponsors Psoriasis 5K Run

Dr. Jason and Rachel Lichten are chairs for the 5K to Cure Psoriasis Run in Columbus to benefit the National Psoriasis Foundation. They recently stopped in to Administration to honor FMC with a certificate for sponsoring the event, held on Oct. 27.

Approximately 250 people attended the run and FMC was a bronze level corporate sponsor. Psoriasis is a chronic, genetic disease that appears on the skin, causing it to crack, itch and bleed. It is not contagious and there is currently no cure. Psoriasis is the most common autoimmune disease in the U.S., affecting roughly 296,000 Ohioans and 7.5 million Americans. There are two purposes for the run: To raise money for the NPF and to raise awareness of psoriasis. Dr. Lichten and Rachel are particularly passionate about curing psoriasis because their 12-year-old son, Sam, has severe psoriasis. One of the main goals for the Lichten family is helping Sam to feel comfortable in his skin, no matter what it looks like.

This year's run will be held on Oct. 26 at Bexley High School. For questions, email Dr. Lichten at Doctor@OhioPlastic.com.

From the Chief's Desk

I'm sort of a movie buff and since this is Academy Award season, I pay particular attention to the movies up for the Best Picture Oscar.

when discussing our computer programs, I frequently hear people suggest that "if this happens, then an alert should come up" or "the computer shouldn't let this happen." Which may be true, but we have to remember that our computers are merely tools that can't think. Sometimes these tools can make our lives easier, and sometimes harder, but we as humans have to do the thinking, keeping in mind that our computers also can make errors. As we continue to refine our computers, they may be able to help us sort out the complexities in treating patients, but ultimately the decisions are up to us. I was glad to see that for the most part, we took our upgrade glitches in stride and continued to care for our patients with the best quality possible, despite occasional computer snafus.

One film up for Best Picture is Her, an odd story in which Joaquin Phoenix installs a new operating system in his computer, which includes the innovative feature of Artificial Intelligence (AI). We will know the results of the Oscars by the time this is printed, but the bizarre nature of this fable gives it a snowball's chance of winning. Scarlett Johansson provides the voice of the operating system and the gist of the movie is that Joaquin Phoenix falls in love with his software. That sounds kind of sick, but as New York Times film critic Manohla Dargis wrote, "In Her, the great question isn't whether machines can think, but whether human beings can still feel."

The recent upgrade of our clinical software put me in mind of this human-machine interaction. Of course, with our upgrade, there were a few glitches on both sides, both technical errors and human errors. We've become accustomed to handling these errors, as glitches are an expected consequence of any software upgrade. But

So we have to keep in mind that caring for patients is a human-human interaction. We shouldn't get to the point where we've "fallen in love" with our software and expect our computers to do our thinking for us. Let's keep the thinking on the human side of patient care and use our computers as tools, realizing that like us, they are prone to error.

Lent – Why Ashes?

The season for Easter is coming soon. Many Christians celebrate the time before Easter with a Season of Lent (from the German language 'Lenz,' meaning long). Lent is the time period of 40 days before Easter (not counting Sundays). As mentioned earlier, Lent is devoted to fasting, repentance, moderation and spiritual discipline. The first day of Lent is known as Ash Wednesday in mainline (Catholic, Episcopal, Lutheran, Methodist, Presbyterian) Christian denominations. I began to wonder – why ashes? The answer lies in an Old Testament example. In the book of Esther, "A man by the name of Haman seeks the king's permission to destroy, kill and cause to perish all Jews, both young and old, little children and women in one day and to take the spoil of them for a prey. Another man, Mordecai, perceived what was done, rented his clothes and put on sackcloth with ashes and went out into the midst of the city and mourned the decree. There was great mourning among the Jews and fasting and weeping and wailing and many lay in sackcloth and ashes." (Esther 3:13, 4:1-3). Job came to a point in his life of suffering and complaining to God. He said, "I abhor myself, and repent in dust and ashes" (Job 42:6). Therefore, the ashes have served as a symbol of repentance, self examination, sacrifice and spiritual discipline in the days leading up to Easter. Christians also are called to examine themselves and to repent of their sins before partaking of the Lord's Supper (1 Corinthians 11:28). What is your tradition during the Easter Season?

Utilizing the Tuition Assistance Program

Please be sure to review the policy on the Intranet to be familiar with the procedure and the employment time commitment. In completing an application, the employee agrees to remain an employee of the Center in a full-time or part-time status at least one year for each semester/course reimbursed. The time commitment starts when the reimbursement is paid to the employee and ends one year from the reimbursement date. Transferring to a contingent status would require the employee to make arrangements to pay the tuition assistance back in full if the time commitment has not been met. This also applies if you graduate and FMC does not have a position in your career field, if you are not chosen for an open position or you choose not to apply for a position.

ESS (Employee Self-Service)

Please be sure to update your Personal Contact information on ESS. You also can make any tax changes, address or phone number changes, add a new checking or savings account. If you add a new direct deposit account, make sure you inactivate any other accounts that you no longer have. ESS will not allow you to delete any account information.

FMC Email Communication

All employees are responsible for checking their FMC email on a regular basis so that all communication is received. If there are questions regarding any communication, please contact the appropriate individual for clarification. Or, if you cannot access your FMC email, please communicate that with your supervisor for assistance.

It’s On It’s Way!

Three weeks and counting...FMC continues to prepare for the launch of it’s new Learning Management System(LMS) and the Talent Development Center (TDC) on April 1. Last week, Monday Morning ran an article that discussed what a Learning Management System is and how the new system would benefit employees. This week, access to the new system and end user training will be discussed.

How will users access the new system? The system is an Internet-based system, so access should be easier than with the previous system. A link to the Talent Development Center (TDC) will be made available via Employee Self Serve. Training sessions have been established for each group that will be using the system. Training dates and times are available via a posting on the Learning and Development tab of the Intranet. Flyers also are available listing the dates and times of upcoming trainings and will be sent to all employees via email. Registration can be completed in Active Staffer. The system is very intuitive and it is not anticipated that most learners will have need for much training to be successful within the system. Job aids also will be available to assist users at the time of go-live. Learning and Development plans to provide support from April 1-11. Special sessions will be provided for managers/supervisors and training coordinators.

On the weekends, when we do not have valet, our patients and families are coming into a lobby with a closed coffee bar, closed registration and soon to be closed gift shop. To better meet the needs of our patients and families on the weekend, we will be doing a six-week pilot in the South Lobby. Our South Registration will open on Saturday, at the same time as our outpatient lab (6:30 a.m. to 3 p.m.). This will be more convenient for testing on Saturday. We also will have a courtesy cart with coffee and we are working with our newspaper providers to once again offer newspapers in the dispensers in the South Lobby. We will be monitoring patient volumes and patient and family feedback. Our goal is to be a facility that is open 24/7. We need to meet the needs of all patients at all different days and times.

disease (GERD) that was recently approved by the FDA. Fairfield Medical Center is one of only three hospitals in Central Ohio to offer the LINX, which is a small, flexible band of magnets enclosed in titanium beads that is surgically placed around the esophagus, just above the stomach. The LINX helps keep the weak lower esophageal sphincter closed to prevent acid and bile from flowing back from the stomach into the esophagus. The seminar was led by Dr. Elwood Martin, medical director of the Fairfield Medical Heartburn Center. Dr. Martin was one of 80 physicians in the United States to be selected by Torax Medical, the manufacturer of the LINX, to go through the training and be certified to surgically place the device. Dr. Martin has already educated approximately 60 patients about the LINX through two community seminars. Due to an overwhelming amount of interest from the community, three more seminars have been scheduled for this spring and summer. The next seminar will be held from 6:30-7:30 p.m. April 3 in Assembly Room 3. Seating is limited for this seminar. To RSVP, call (740) 687-8007.

Pulmonary Rehabilitation Week is March 9-15

This week is Pulmonary Rehabilitation Week (March 9 - 15) and the theme is "Better Breathing, Better Living." This week is celebrated nationwide at hospitals, exercise facilities and outpatient rehabilitation centers throughout the country. National Pulmonary Rehabilitation Week was initiated by the American Association of Cardiovascular and Pulmonary Rehabilitation (AACVPR) to focus national attention on pulmonary rehabilitation's contribution to enhancing the lives of individuals with chronic obstructive pulmonary disease. AACVPR believes that greater visibility is needed for the chronic pulmonary patient who constantly lives with shortness of breath and faces a future of declining health.

PCU Unit Council Holds Celebration

PCU's Unit Council sponsored a celebration Feb. 22-March 1 called "We are PCU" to acknowledge the staff and their 2013 accomplishments. The week started and ended with a breakfast for the staff cooked by members of Unit Council. Each employee received a purple and green bracelet (matching the new room colors chosen by staff who assisted with redecorating) imprinted with "WE ARE PCU- PRIDE-CARING- UNITY." Drawings were held daily on each shift with employees winning gift cards from Conversations or Subway. A bulletin board in the break room announced the new values for FMC which are INTEGRITY, TEAMWORK, STEWARDSHIP, AGILITY and EMPATHY. In the months ahead staff will be invited to recognize their coworkers for putting these values into action. Those recognized include recipients of the Safety Award and Legendary Caregivers (both individual and unit), those who participated on committees to decrease pressure ulcers, decrease supply waste, capture patient charges to improve revenue and bedside reporting. We also celebrated our quality metric scores.

Staff led, the Unit Council, which is part of a shared governance model, is made up of registered nurses, nursing assistants and unit clerks who meet monthly. Employees provide input into unit decisions and lead unit initiatives with the goal of increasing employee satisfaction, decreasing turnover and
